

Best Study Day 2023 – Wales

Wales Region arranged more than one excellent and well attended study event over the year, however they received best study award for their full day online "Complex Respiratory System Made Easy" study event September 2022, with over 100 attendees. Communication to set up the event was timely and complete, and feedback on the content and delivery was excellent. With their great use of technology amongst the team they were able to capture this event as a recording which is broken into sections and available to you in our members area HERE

Most Outstanding Region 2023 - Wales

During the past year and leading onto BACCN Conference 2023 the Wales Region maintained excellent communication links with both Regional and Professional Advisors, keeping members engaged and producing relevant content for Critical Care Nurses. They produced two excellent online study events, Complex Respiratory Systems made easy and Cardiac System Made Easy, and both with over 100 attendees, which ran seamlessly and with highly rated content. Their masterful use of technology meant that recordings of these full day events are available to our members HERE.

National Leadership Award, Chair of the Year 2023, Carolyne Stewart

Carolyne leads our biggest region in terms of membership, with energy and enthusiasm, and arranged two well reviewed study events in the year, one face to face. She personally handled many logistics of the face to face event in London which was attended by over 50 attendees, and handled unanticipated challenges with her typical grace. She led the online event End of Life Care, which can be seen HERE

Most Innovative Committee of the Year 2023, Veterinary Critical Care Nurses

It was through our VCCN colleagues that many of us learned of the One health initiative and how both Veterinarian and Human Critical Care nursing can have in all its differences so many similarities. They ran 4 very successful online study events across last year, all attended by both Veterinarian and Human Critical Care Nurses. They have shown, drive, commitment and enthusiasm and above all have been truly innovative in introducing so many of us to the concept of #OneHealth. See recordings of their events HERE.
