

BACCN Conference 2024 Grant Report

Francesca Trotta

Attending the British Association of Critical Care Nurses (BACCN) conference was an enriching and inspiring experience. Presenting my research study to such a passionate and knowledgeable audience was a highlight, providing valuable feedback and engaging discussions that deepened my understanding of critical care nursing. Recording a podcast about the study was another exciting opportunity, allowing me to share insights with a broader audience and reflect on the impact of our work. What stood out most, however, was the incredible sense of community among the ICU nurses I met. Their dedication, kindness, and shared commitment to excellence left me motivated to continue striving for meaningful contributions and foster connections within this dynamic field.
